THEATRE ENERGY
presents an original play

Directed by, Ronnie Gilbert and Buzz Bense

MUCK MILLIE VIRGIL

MUCK, MILLIE and VIRGIL are not the people whose relationships this play explores, but rather names in a graffito along Route 6 in the Slocan Valley, which we borrowed for our title. But we wonder if those three mysterious strangers ever had occasion to ask themselves these questions, as each of us had to in the making of this play...

What is alone? Who is it I see when I tell you, "I love you"? When I say I want commitment, am I wishing for a gift or making a demand? If I belong with you, do I belong to you? Can love be shared more than two ways? If it is difference which draws us together, must it also inevitably draw us apart? What is it to be a man, a woman, a person? - Are there reliable models for these? Etc., etc.

Perhaps we ought to say that we hope everyone will see something of themselves in this play, and that the characters are as true to real experience as several weeks of hammering away at the rock of our own defenses could make them.

However, none of the characters in fact "represents" anyone, including ourselves.
